

Trump Threatens 20-50 Percent Tariffs For 8 Countries

Transcript

Imports from Brazil and seven other countries could face double-digit tariffs August 1, according to President Donald Trump.

"It's going to be a great thing for our country. I think it's going to be a fair thing for the world."

"These tariffs are a tax on American importers and American families."

Trump is threatening to force American businesses to pay a 50% duty on imports from Brazil.

He calls the trial of former Brazilian President Jair Bolsonaro a "witch hunt that should end immediately."

Bolsonaro is a Trump ally who was accused of attempting a coup.

Brazil's sitting president says his country is a sovereign nation that won't bow to Trump's demand. Instead, he is threatening retaliation.

The U.S. has a trade surplus with Brazil, so that could hurt American exporters.

"President Trump uses tariffs for all sorts of reasons — whether it's reshoring, the trade deficit, fairness — but definitely this is different."

Trump says he also has informed Algeria, Iraq, Libya, Moldova, Sri Lanka, Brunei, and the Philippines of upcoming 20 to 30% flat tariffs on their products.

"The formula was a formula based on common sense."

Some experts say they'd prefer more extensive negotiations and more nuanced trade deals.

"The fact that they essentially are doing letters also sadly speaks to — really, this comes down to how the president feels that morning."